

- JMS provides guarantees
- Every message is consumed once and only once
- If multiple consumers connect to the queue, messages are distributed between them (this can be used for load balancing)
- JMS messages can be produced by Java EE applications, legacy applications, etc.
- JMS messages can be consumed by Message Driven Beans, legacy applications, etc.

